

ECCM-9 Associated Event

Open-day at the DERA-Cambridge Gordon Laboratory, University of Cambridge.

The DERA-Cambridge Gordon Laboratory was officially opened in June 1999. It is dedicated to research into advanced composite systems.

All ECCM-9 delegates are invited to attend a Gordon Laboratory Open Day at the Dept Materials Science and Metallurgy, Cambridge University, on Friday 9th June 2000.

This visit will give you the opportunity to take a tour of the Department's facilities, see poster displays covering composite materials and other topics in Materials Science and attend presentations given by researchers from Cambridge and DERA.

The highlight of the day will be 'The Kelly Lecture'. This is an annual invited lecture given by a highly respected speaker, reviewing the state of the art in a selected topic within the broad area of advanced composite systems. It is named after Professor Tony Kelly who gave the inaugural lecture in June 1999. This year Professor Tony Evans from Princeton University, New Jersey will give a presentation entitled 'Thermal Barrier Coatings'.
